

To re-write a Just So Story - Success Criteria

Monday 24th September

I can write legibly and join my handwriting.	✓
I have used subordinating conjunctions to link my ideas together, including at the beginning of sentences.	✓
I have used relative clauses.	✓
I have used commas to mark clauses.	✓
I have punctuated any direct speech correctly.	✓

suggested
I am a ~~camel~~ camel, just an ordinary camel. ~~people~~ ~~R~~ ~~R~~
People think camels are creatures with with a big hump but they're not. Camels were never ~~exposed~~ supposed to have ~~big~~ humps so how did they get them. I am the first camel, who was tricked into having this stupid hump. The ~~horse~~ horse, dog, and ~~oak~~ ~~oak~~ ^{oak}, who ~~played this trick~~ on me were my friends, played this trick on me. It turns out they hated me. ~~One~~ glorious
It was one glorious day when I was making my way to ~~man~~ the man to work. The horse, dog and oak, who were in disguise, came up to me. They slapped me and poked me. I yelled, "Help! Somebody help!" Nobody came.

~~The next day~~ Rather than working, I was forced to just sit there and observe the world around ~~my~~ me. The Horse came up to me. "What are you doing?" He questioned sarcastically.

My reply? ~~In~~ ⁱⁿ a sad voice, I said ~~hm~~ "Humph." Humph, which ~~to~~ meant I'm injured, was camel ~~language~~ language.

~~25th Wednesday~~ 26th Wednesday September

"Excuse me," the horse boomed, and ~~totter~~ ~~off~~. The horse, who was not happy, stomped off. ~~Or~~

Days ~~for~~ flew by quickly. Even though I was ~~injured~~ couldn't ~~or~~ work and was injured, I tried very hard to walk. It was hard at first but got ~~easier~~ easier as time moved forward. The mischievous ~~mysterious~~ dog came over to me and asked,

✓ "Aren't you going to fetch materials like the rest of us," Not pretending not to notice my injury. Just like ~~later~~ last time I groaned, "Humph."

"Hey!" the Dog ~~ex~~ exclaimed "you look hurt!" Well see you ~~later~~ later." If only I could help, I thought the work would be done more quickly.

✓ After I had my morning walk, the Oax came to me. "Come and plow the fields you lazy bones!" In an ~~an~~ annoyed voice I huffed, "Humph!"

"And what's that supposed to mean?" Does it mean your going to work?"

My head, ~~was~~ that was going overload, I couldn't think what to say.

"Forget it!" the ox snapped your not going to talk!" The Oax, who had a very bad temper, lost control and charged of ~~was~~ unable to control himself. That night the Dog, Oax and Horse came to ~~the~~ the Man. "That camel is useless!" complained the Dog. "I agree!" said the Horse angrily. The Oax, who pretended to look as ~~very~~ annoyed as possible possible, said nothing. He just ~~nodded~~ nodded.

✓ ~~It~~ The man replied in a wary voice, "I'm sorry to say, that you have to do extra work ~~to~~ to fill in for that camel. The Dog, Horse and Oax, whose faces fell, ~~was~~ felt stupid. The Djinn of the desert, hid behind a bush, so that ~~we~~ he could hear. Thus The trio knew the Djin was there. It was part of their plan. ||

The Djin Djinn came over to me the next day. Rather than going over to him, I stayed were I was. "Are you the camel who hasn't been working?" the Djinn boomed. "You have got the others extra work." "Humph." I yelled.

✓ "Humph!" I yelled.

✓ "Don't humph me!"

✓ "Humph!" I yelled even louder.

✓ "I wouldn't say that if I were you!" the Djin shouted.

✓ "Humph!" I yelled the loudest I could.

No sooner than I had said it, than I saw my back.

A massive hump had ~~see~~ appeared. The Djinn, ~~to~~ who ~~to~~ was ~~was~~ wearing a ~~broad~~ ~~broad~~ broad smile, exclaimed, "There is your own hump. It will let you work for ~~w~~ three days by storing food and drink in it. That's how camels get their hump. A little bird told me they're called humps now. Anyway, there I sat in sorrow. Maybe ~~some~~ camels aren't so ~~ordinary~~ ordinary."

So impressed Ben, keep this up!